Intermarkets Reston, Virginia

Interior Architecture services for a media and technology company's headquarters

DCS designed Intermarkets' new space to encourage team work, this includes featuring many open collaboration areas for impromptu meetings. This encapsulates the media firm's "POETIC" corporate culture and mission of "emphasizing a collaborative and fun office environment which drives the business." Branding was also very important for the new space, the Intermarkets' colors can be seen at every angle of the new office. Michael Loy, Intermarkets' COO, says "DCS Design did a fabulous job designing the space, incorporating collaborative areas, extraordinary finishes and sleek furniture that are perfect for a growing media company. We couldn't be happier with our new home."
