Nixon & Vanderhye PC
Arlington, Virginia

Interior Architectural Services for an in-place renovation of a prominent law firm

The goal in designing Nixon & Vanderhye's 45,400 SF in-place renovation and consolidation was to create a modern aesthetic which reflects the firm's future goals and vision, while placing an emphasis on efficiency. New branding elements coupled with key updates throughout the two floors creates a new appearance while maintaining many complimentary existing features.

Construction on the 11th floor includes a new reception, conference center with privacy shades, client coffee bar, creation of open breakout areas, new pantry, updated finishes, light fixtures and appliances. White finishes paired with cove lighting create a soft lounge-like atmosphere that is both warm and welcoming. Cherry wood paneling behind the reception and translucent cube lighting in the conference room add texture and depth. The existing two story internal stair was refinished with new honed tile to match the polished main floor.

The firm's 12th floor improvements emphasize increased efficiency including creating an open office plan, new ceiling with energy efficient light fixtures, new finishes and a pantry designed to be more casual and energetic in contrast to the rest of the space.
